

Third Pillar's LoanPath Adds Agility To Your Back Office

Solutions for those running ALS, ACBS, or Impacts

LoanPath, our flexible, web-based loan origination system, can handle all of your loan origination needs—from touch-less credit scored transactions flowed into ALS, to highly structured transactions that need to be booked into ACBS. LoanPath gives you end-to-end transaction ability without any operator intervention.

With this automated connection between the front and back office, you can:

- Reduce operational costs
- Eliminate errors
- Provide a repeatable and audited method to board transactions

Over the last several years, Third Pillar has worked with some of the world's largest banks implementing LoanPath with Fidelity back office systems to provide immediate savings and improved customer service throughout the lending process. Third Pillar's market-leading origination systems have enabled banks to reduce processing time on transactions, from days to minutes—creating a true, straight through process.

Fidelity's rock-solid loan processing back office (combined with an implementation team staffed with experienced Fidelity consultants), and Third Pillar's market-leading origination systems create a rapid, risk-free implementation delivering a quicker ROI.

The Partnership

LoanPath provides a single credit platform into multiple back office systems. With flexibility to adapt to any credit process, it provides all the modules necessary to underwrite a transaction.

Third Pillar ensures the data captured in LoanPath, and all the products configured in LoanPath, can flow into the back office with the necessary matching codes and rules needed to book automatically—thus eliminating unnecessary re-keying and costly errors.

The Architecture

LoanPath's service oriented architecture provides seamless integration of the front and back offices using state of the art technologies, such as Java, XML, and Web Services. This architecture provides the scalability and flexibility necessary to adapt to today's evolving regulatory environment—allowing you to alter rules, not code, when business needs change.
